

Supportive Agencies

There are many international organisations involved with disability and development issues, most of which have a particular focus. Listed below is a broad range of potentially useful contacts who can share information regarding publications, funding, education and training for both those about to go and work in an under resourced country, or for those already working on development projects. Although many have been chosen due to their specific relevance to those working with children and adults with speech, language and communication difficulties, other organisations have also been included due to their relevance for more general information on development work.

As we all know, details change continually over time. Please send any updates or new additions to the CTI address ctimembership@yahoo.com
